

COOKBOOK MARKET –ECHO PARK— PRODUCE LEAD

We are looking for someone who is:

- serious about cooking and cooks every day
- knowledgeable about Southern California produce and eager to learn more
- available nights, weekends and holidays
- friendly, responsible, respectful, reliable, self motivated, hard working
- able to multi-task while keeping a high standard of customer service
- excited about the local/sustainable food movement
- able to lift 50lbs

Responsibilities will include, but are not limited to:

- receiving produce + fresh flower deliveries
- displaying and stocking produce + fresh flowers on the sales floor
- correctly pricing all produce on the sales floor and communicating produce price updates to store colleagues
- organizing and properly rotating produce + fresh flower back stock inventory to reduce waste
- communicating regularly with produce buyer regarding on-hand inventory and produce + fresh flower needs
- tending cash register
- closing, stocking, and cleaning the store

Former farmer's market experience is ideal. Must be able to do a lot of heavy lifting throughout the day, must be comfortable working in a small store, in our dry storage, and on the sales floor, must have a great eye for displaying produce + flowers, and must really care about where your food comes from and how it is grown.

This is a super fast-paced work environment, and we're here to make the shop a place our customers want to come back to day after day.

We specialize in super tasty, responsibly raised meats, cheeses & produce. We're committed to sourcing seasonally, locally and organically, to creating lasting partnerships with our farmers and producers, and to serving outstanding food that highlights these connections and high quality ingredients.

We are hiring immediately - if you love hard work, love taking care of people, and love produce + cooking, we would love to hear from you!
